

NEHL HORTON

Chief Public Affairs and Communications Officer

Nehl Horton is chief public affairs and communications officer for MillerCoors. He is responsible for promoting MillerCoors business strategy and commercial interests with a wide variety of internal and external audiences. He oversees communications and advocacy efforts focused on employees, media, distributors, multicultural organizations, community groups and local, state and federal governments. He's also responsible for leading sustainability, alcohol responsibility and community commerce strategies to increase commercial impact, sell more beer, secure production inputs, create consumer interest and enhance MillerCoors reputation.

Most recently, Nehl was chief communications, strategy and government affairs officer for MillerCoors. Nehl joined Miller Brewing Company as senior vice president, communications and government affairs in September 2005.

Before joining Miller, Nehl held senior communications positions at pharmaceutical leaders Novartis International AG and Pfizer Inc.

Prior to that, he spent nearly a decade at The Coca-Cola Company in a variety of U.S. and international public affairs positions.

Nehl also spent several years in political communications roles, including press secretary for U.S. Senator Wyche Fowler Jr. of Georgia; communications director for the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee; and press secretary and director of legislative affairs to former Atlanta Mayor Andrew Young.

Nehl earned a bachelor's degree in English and political science from Duke University.